

LAWTON

Sunday Afternoon

25 November 84

*It took just "a few days"
to get all this together and to the post office.*

Dear Robert,

Having within the last several months lapsed into such an unpardonable state of dereliction with my correspondence, I am quite frankly (and appropriately) ashamed to write you. Although there is no excuse whatsoever for my "epistolary negligence," I shall never the less at least offer you two explanations (one firm, the other feeble) for being so remiss in staying in touch, and answering your marvelous letters, which are always so warm, interesting, informative and delightful to read.

Your first letter, dated 13 September and mailed to my previous address, was an "Aeneas Africanus" of a missive that seemed to have arrived everywhere else first in Horry County, before reaching me finally--or so I surmised, upon examining all the criss-cross of "FORWARD TO" instructions scribbled on the envelope. For some reason, it eventually wound up at Northside Pharmacy, my present landlord's place of business, where it lay (amidst a large and ever-increasing bundle of other mail) for well over a month. At last, someone at the pharmacy took note of this accumulating mail and mentioned it to Johnny (my landlord), who dropped it by The South Wind Motel, where I work after school.

Have you ever attempted to plough through a six-week's backlog of correspondence--which consisted, for the most part, of lengthy, and/or detailed items such as occur in genealogical research and "relative exchanges" thereof? Ever since receiving this big "bale" of correspondence, I've been flapping around like a one-armed wallpaper-hanger, trying to figure out a way to answer all of it--and with very limited success, as I am confident you will attest. Owell and anyway, that's what happened in the case of your first letter.

In the cases of your second and third letters, I can but meekly plead, Mea Culpa. They arrived at Socastee without any problem--other than the problem of my having for so long allowed them to remain unanswered, that is.

Actually, I have on a number of evenings sat down and attempted to respond to your wonderful genealogical "cornucopias," but must truthfully confess that, since moving, I have had the focus and bearings of a chicken with its head lopped off. As you know, it is impossible to correspond on genealogy without ready, organized notes, files, charts, etc., and mine are still anything and everything but ready and organized. Then, working until 9:00 seven nights a week after school has also taken its toll on my erstwhile calling and commitments--but now that the golfing season is finally winding down, I will soon be able to bid The South Wind "Aloha" for a few months, and return to concerns of kith and kin.

Well, that's enough "gwinein' an' gwinein'" about why my correspondence has been so lousy lately. What I now intend to do is remediate that problem by responding to your last three letters, in as many particulars as time permits, beginning with the 13 September letter. First, however, let me mention the accompanying xeroxed items.

Please note a number of enclosures, the first of which is a potpourri of odds and ends I received last August from David Nixon, a Milam descendant from Conway, Ark., with whom I very briefly corresponded prior to my move. I may have already mentioned this fellow to you--and, if so, I hope I haven't previously mailed you copies of this mélange of material, for it is certainly not something I should care to fossick more than once. For my needs ("Diataphus Dearest"), none of this information was useful--though I very much appreciated David's thoughtfulness and generosity in sending it to me. Perhaps you and Miss Cora will have better success with it than I did. Do let me know what (if anything) you find.

The next enclosures consist of some random tidbits of information from Laurens--a few of Mrs. Brownlee's gleanings. It is quite possible that you have long before now anticipated her suggestions and leads, and have followed through with them, but I am sending you copies of everything she sent anyway, just in case. As you well realize, "whole ancestors" often suddenly and unexpectedly "swirl into clear ken" on the merest margins of miscellaneous minutiae. Mrs. Brownlee repeatedly assures me that my D. M. will more than likely "occur" just so--if ever at all. There comes a time in research when one must "peel the parings." "Milamly speaking," you and I have arrived at that time.

I was (and still am) thoroughly delighted with the Oswald and collateral data you sent to me back in September--as I was with the new and totally unexpected Peebles connection, which I would most certainly have been months in finding out about, were it not for you. Perhaps during the Christmas holidays (20 December-2 January here) I can explore this line a bit further, though I really doubt there will be sufficient time to "do the line justice" until this summer, when my schedule is more relaxed. As for the book you mentioned, PEEBLES ANTE 1600-1962, please reserve a copy for me, particularly if my Margaret Peebles' lines are traced in it. I would send you a check for it right now, but you would then send it, and I would then immerse myself in it, and become even more derelict in my correspondence, so--simply reserve one for me to read later.

Thanks entirely to you, the maternal "trunk" of my "Beaufort Branch" (the chart of my great-grandmother, Sarah Adelaide Sams) is burgeoning beautifully--and with such down-to-the-last-detail completeness! As I have mentioned to you before, she (SAS) is my "je ne sais quoi," favorite forebear. I so envy all the people still living (and there are a goodly few left) who actually knew her, and I will never be able to believe that I "missed" her by a (genealogically speaking) "mere" 12 years. But I am digressing, and being egocentric to boot, so let me return to the primary purpose of this letter, namely, answering your letters---though at the rate I'm going, I'll have time for only your first one at this sitting.

On the matter of the trials and tribulations of being a Milam descendant attempting to "Re-scend" his way back to an ornery ancestor via a maze and welter of DAR doodledy-squat details and dickering, I commiserate with you sincerely and to the nth degree, as I am certain you already know. Our mutual and "congenital" "Milamitis" is our "Laurens Charleston"---Capt. William all over again. Rest assured, however, that Mrs. Brownlee fully intends to keep you and Miss Cora ever in mind as she minutely and meticulously follows the "spoor" of my elusive (and very aptly yclept) progenitor "Dodge." She is "cementedly" tenacious when it comes to "hanging in there." I have known her to contact a client of years past with a hastily scribbled comment such as, "Got 'im! Your ggg-grandfather's last name was Zeigler, son of Obidiah and Rebecca (Pearson) Zeigler, all three buried at....etc., etc." It well may be that Mrs. Brownlee may drop you and Miss Cora just such a bolt from the blue. ("Casual thunderclaps" delight her, especially when she "causes" them.) Please don't give up on DAR---and for goodness sake don't withdraw Miss Cora's application. Bide your time---and in the meantime, just relish the thought of the delicious delight you will perhaps someday derive from being able to cram reams---generation after generation of it---of PROOF down their throats.

As for your quandary concerning exactly (and tactfully) how to respond to Ed Milam, I know precisely what you mean. He is such a sincere and kind-hearted person, but in no way a research "realist." In attempting to respond to his last letter, I found myself "drooling dilemma." What does one gracefully say to his quantum speculations, that quite literally beggar description? I could no more tell a child that his deftless finger-paintings were not art, than I could point out to Ed what his "findings" really are---and so I have not yet responded to his last letter. Ironically, though, it may ultimately be just such a one as he who untangles the Gordian Knot of our Milam ancestry:

We're in the serendipity rows,
Where experts are amateurs--
Amateurs--pro's.

Remind me sometime to tell you about how the enigma of Elizabeth "Burt," the second wife of my ancestor Bonum Sams, was finally resolved. It's a perfect illustration of what we will probably encounter before our Milam mess is sorted out, but I'll save it for later, when I am not in such arrears with my correspondence.

Your innocent and ill-fated intrusion into the situation of the "shacked-up great-grandfather" made me laugh out loud---and at the same time reflect on some of my teaching experiences, two of which I shall share with you. If you think the older folks are up to some shocking shenanigans, you should step for just a few moments into the "fast lane," and see what the "jet set" is up to.

One morning last year a young "lady"--a truly very attractive, intelligent, well-mannered and obviously (at least to me) well-bred student--came rushing and panting into my first-period English class about 20 minutes after the tardy bell had rung. Before I even had an opportunity to ask why she was late, she "explained" (though she "more at" actually announced), "Please don't yell at me for being late, Mr. Lawton. My boyfriend forgot to set our alarm." Naturally, I didn't have the breath left in me to yell anything to that statement. I didn't even have enough sense to breathe the air with which to yell. I simply stood there and more or less mentally "evaporated" with "stun."

On another occasion last year, while calling the roll, I received this "intelligence" from one of my students, upon inquiring the whereabouts of another "young lady" who did answer to her name: "She won't be here today or tomorrow. She's in Charleston getting an abortion." When I instantly scathed the student verbally for uttering such a crass and callous comment, several others piped in to his defense--more or less to this effect: "Well, that's where she is. Everybody knows it--and you did ask. Her parents took her."

The above incident occurred on a Thursday. The following Monday, I walked the absentee with a "blue slip" (an excused absence), and the following explanation--which I assure you was unsolicited: "Mr. Lawton, I know you're upset because I missed my grammar test last Friday, but I was pregnant, you see, and my boyfriend broke up with me when he found out, so I had to go Charleston to see a doctor about, you know, getting everything straightened out, and they told me in attendance that this absence wouldn't count as one of my unexcused days, since I was in a hospital and seeing a doctor, so do I get to make up the grammar test?"

Ordinarily, I am an extremely compassionate and understanding person--one must be, if he is to teach--but this thing so far exceeded my heart's ability to encompass it that, before I even realized I was telling her, I had told her: "I'll give you the same chance to pass this class that you gave your child to live his life. My classroom is not an extension of an abortion clinic. I utterly reject your 'excuse' in this matter, and furthermore advise you to deal directly with the superintendent himself, if you have any intentions of insisting upon your so-called 'human rights.'" Fortunately, she did not pursue the matter, for I would never have backed down, and the whole thing would surely have wound up in court.

Well, I believe that about covers your first letter--or at least it does to the best of my ability to respond to it, with such materials as I have readily at hand. I'll get this bundle off in the mail this afternoon when I go to work, and get busy with your second letter when I get home tonight.

As always, give Miss Cora my regards, and expect to hear from me again within the next week.

As ever,

Dear Rev. Dr. Peeples,

I have been in touch with Tom Lawton of Allendale, South Carolina who gave me the name of Gene Lawton (Mrs. Robert G. Lawton) of Shreveport, Louisiana, who in turn has given me your name.

Gene has sent me some Lawton family history and Tom has sent several very interesting papers to me, one of which is the early family beginning with Adam De Lauton.

I am trying to find out how my Lawtons are descended from these very early Lawtons and also, I am working back from the earliest Lawton which I've been able to find.

My earliest Lawton was Ralph William who married a Miss Shaw. He owned a stage coach line from Delph to London. He had a brother, Joseph who moved to Charleston. No dates on any of this.

One of Ralph Williams children was Joseph Gamaliel who married Hannah Jane Dunn. (JG - 1830-1911) (HJ - ?-1895).

One of his children was Edward Gamaliel married Marie Cora Prud'homme.
1865-1934 1871-1952

One of their children was Alphonse Gamaliel married Sudie Merritt.
1895-1960 1900 -

Alphonse Gamaliel was my grandfather. His grandfather, Joseph, lived in South Africa and New Zealand because of his wife's health. Edward and a brother came to South Carolina and stayed with cousins. Edward was a medical doctor and he moved to Natchitoches, Louisiana to practice medicine.

Gene mentioned a booklet, "Our Family Circle" and any other information you have would be much appreciated. Please let me know cost, etc of the booklet and if you think my Lawtons are connected to Cheshire. Tom mentioned York for my Lawtons.

Sincerely,

Julie

Dear Paul:

After working over the Lawton parish record, and comparing it to Ormerod, it became apparent that he did not have the parish records when he compiled the Ormerod history of Cheshire, with the result that there are some apparent errors in his chart, and several bits of information that can be added.

Enclosed are corrected charts for the three holders of the Manor of Lawton:

John (1521 - 1598/9)
William (1553 - 1617)
John (1604/06 - 1634/5) 1655
1596

This intrigued me enough that I have written the enclosed letter to Miss Simpson to extend this transcript to 1750. This may give us more insight as to the later Lawton emigrants.

With best regards,

Burrell

Robert -

This came in from Burrell after I had put his first batch of material in the mail to you. I have not yet had time to do a good job of analyzing the data herein. All my files are at home. I will be in touch again later. In the meantime, I wanted to get this material off to you.

Yours - Paul

Dear Miss Simpson:

Since writing you 21 February, I have had an opportunity to study the Lawton transcript you made, and find that when Ormerod prepared the ancestral table in his history of Cheshire, he obviously did not have the information from this parish record, which corrects some items, and adds much more.

It is my understanding that the Bishop's transcript in Chester would enable you to extend this transcript to 1750 without having to go back to Church Lawton. If this is correct, I would appreciate it if you will do so. However, it does not mean enough to me to incur the expense of going back to Church Lawton, if that should be necessary.

There are two items on your transcript that I would like clarified.

The last item on the first page of christenings is:

"2 May 1591 c Agnet filia Thome Lawton et Warber eius uscor"

Warber is an entirely unfamiliar name. I feel sure that I have read it correctly, but is there any modern equivalent?

Second from the bottom on the third page of christenings is:

"8 Feb-1621/2 c Ranulphus filius Johis Lawton ???"

The last two or three letters are not clear to me.

When you send me the remainder of the transcript, let me know how much I owe you, and I will remit promptly, subject, however to the fact that I am going to Australia from April 4 to 24, so if it arrives during that period, my remittance will necessarily be delayed until me return.

I will appreciate this.

With best regards,

LAWTON

Dear Robert -

While going through some old papers the other night, I ran across the enclosed two pages of notes, copies of which I have sent to Tommy and Mrs. Browder as well.

I have no idea where notes there were or where I obtained them, so I am hoping that you will be able to help me figure out where they may have come from.

What struck me first about these notes was the date they were recorded - March of 1926. Who in the world back then knew anything at all about CWH? Cousin Annie Miller didn't even know about him in 1931 when she compiled OFC.

Nothing new about CWH appears in these notes, but note the reference on the second page to Mary Lawton:

1736-40 p. 173 Mary Lawton to James
Maxwell - 18 Oct. 1744

Which Mary Lawton was this? Since Winbourn Lawton was born in 1745, I would say this would have to be his mother, since Mary Clark Lawton was already dead. What do you think?

Next, what type record is this - some sort of land transaction? How do we consult the source for further information?

Next, what Lawton - Maxwell family connections do you know of? I can't find anything in my limited sources - just a bunch of Maxwells that have no obvious relationship to CWL. Do you know who this James Maxwell was?

Last - and most important - if these notes reflect what information was in the Fireproof Building in 1926, shouldn't we have someone check to see what else might be there? I eagerly will await your thoughts and suggestions.

I will close and get this in the morning mail

Give Miss Cera my regards, and let me hear from you soon.

As ever -
Paul

Dear Robert,

It was great talking to you the other day. How fortunate for me that I contacted you and it turns out that we are cousins; I could've listened to your recollections all day. I had heard from my father (Philip Robert Livingston) about some of my SC roots and you knew them. Talking with you Tuesday brought back many memories of those stories. I recall my father telling me that we had Huguenot descendants, but I had no idea from what branch; now I know. Having this confirmed by you made me so proud of my Lawton family South Carolina heritage.

I'm most anxious to get the A.E. Miller (600 pages!!) "Our Family Circle" book and study my South Carolinian Lawton Family history, genealogy, and heritage and receive the 1790 portrait of the Dr., our mutual relative. I've enclosed a check for $33.50 made out to you to acquire these priceless treasures.

I'm equally eager to document my ancestry and acquire membership in your distinguished "The Society of First Families of South Carolina" organization. You were so gracious in offering to sponsor me for membership in this fine group. I look forward to future correspondences with you and the sharing of our mutual heritage.

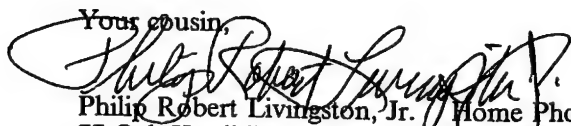

Shortly, I'll contact Mrs. Barbara Pringle Claypoole of the Huguenot Society of SC and inquire about membership in that grand society also.

In due course, I'll get together my South Carolinian photos and papers (from my dear Aunt Rose Douglas Lewis...whose mother was ROSA LAWTON Livingston Douglas (2nd marriage) and father was Dr. George Baskerville Douglas) and forward copies to you for your enjoyment.

As I might have related to you, I'm a direct descendant of Philip Livingston "the Signer" of the Declaration of Independence and all three of the Livingston "Lords of the Manor." Currently, I'm a member of the Descendants of the Signers of the Declaration of Independence and Sons of the Revolution (New York State Chapter). I'm in the process of filling out the membership application for the Sons of the American Revolution.

Again thanks so much for answering my questions yesterday and making yourself known to me. I'm most grateful to make your acquaintance. It's not everyday that one can discover and talk to a relative previously unknown to them. Looking forward to talking to you soon.

Your cousin,

Mrs. Joan Hodgkinson Orton

Dear Mrs. Orton,

Please allow me the pleasure of introducing myself to you. My name is Philip Robert Livingston, Jr. and I'm a cousin to our mutual dear friend, the Rev. Dr. Robert E.H. Peeples. The Rev. Robert and his lovely wife Miss Cora have done so much to introduce and reveal to me my wonderful southern heritage. They've both been so kind and generous to me and my small family. As you are aware, the Rev. Robert has introduced me to the "Hereditary Order of Descendants of Colonial Governors" and through my lineal descendency to 1693-4 South Carolina Governor Landgrave Thomas Smith, has endorsed me for membership there in. I'd like to request of you, to do me the honor of seconding my nomination for membership. To that end, I've provided some background information about myself and my family to assist you.

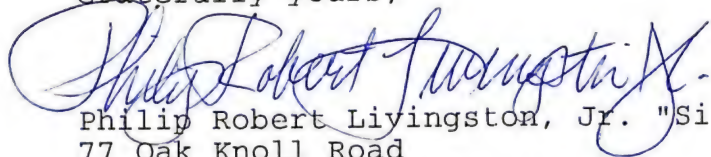

My wife Sara and I met in college and married in 1969. She's most recently from Colorado Springs, CO and loves to visit there often, where she still has family. I'm 50 years old, born and raised in northern New Jersey, and the only child of the late LTC Philip Robert Livingston and Marguerite Emery Livingston (currently living in Myrtle Beach, SC). I am the proud father of two great children, my daughter Emery Rile Livingston, who graduated with honors from Lafayette College and works in private industry; and my son Philip Robert Livingston, III, who's a junior at Duke University and currently studying abroad at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland for the academic year.

We live in Glen Rock, New Jersey (northeast corner of NJ) and enjoy the outdoors a great deal. We hope to travel more in the future, now that the kids are almost out of the house. I'm a graduate of Westminster College (B.A. 1969) and Fairleigh Dickinson University (M.B.A. 1978) and my lovely bride is a graduate of Katherine Gibbs (A.A. 1970). I'm an analyst with the IBM Corporation (28 years) and my wife is a part time oral surgeon's assistant and bible study enthusiast. I'm an amateur genealogist, philatelist (duck stamps), golf enthusiast, and high school sport official.

Hopefully this provides you with a little bit more information about me. I'd cherish the opportunity to be elected to membership in the "Hereditary Order of Descendants of Colonial Governors" and it's my hope that you'll sign my enclosed application and return the same to the Rev. Robert for forwarding back to me. I'd be very appreciative and thankful.

If for any reason you require additional information about me or my character, please do not hesitate to ask, and I'll forward on to you promptly. I hope this presents no problem for you. Thank you so much for your consideration.

Gratefully yours,

"Dr. Theodore deHon Mathews (1816-1860 Robsville)

In 1846 Dr. Theodore deHon Mathews and his wife, Mary Lawton Mathews, came by stage coach from South Carolina. Dr. Mathews bought a lot and built a home at the corner of Pine + Jackson streets, where the Municipal Auditorium now stands.

Dr. & Mrs. Mathews lived in Albany from 1846 to 1854, having during the interval lost two children who are buried in Oakview Cemetery. Mrs. Mathews's father, B. (Benjamin) T. (Themistocles) D. (D'Ion) Lawton, also died while they lived in this section and is also buried in the local cemetery; and as their health was very poor they thought it best to return to South Carolina.

The Southern Agriculturist for Feb. 1737 contains a sketch of William Seabrook (S.C.H.S. 17). It states at 17 years he took charge of his own and his mother's estates and managed them so well they improved greatly. He was one of the first to cultivate successfully the sea-island or black-seed cotton said to have been introduced into Georgia in 1785 by Josiah Tatnall. He was among the first to test the use of salt-mud as a fertilizer for cotton. He established a steamboat line between Charleston and Savannah with stops in between, thereby bringing the plantations closer to the cities. He was an elder of the Presbyterian Church of Edisto Island and contributed liberally to educational and religious institutions. He left $5000 for the establishment of a school in the Parish of St. John, Colleton County and the same amount to the Presbyterian Church on Edisto Island. He owned several large plantations: on Seabrook's Island (formerly Simmons), White Point on Slann's Island, lands on John's Island, Wadmalaw Island, Edisto Island and on Hilton Head Island. He built several handsome houses, including his "Mansion House" mentioned in his will. He gave to his children handsome houses and large sums of money as they reached maturity. His estate was appraised at $376,916.60 — a large sum at that time.

Issue of William Seabrook and Emma Elizabeth Edings:

1. Robert Chisolm Seabrook — B. 1821 — D. 1852 — no issue.
2. Joseph Edings Seabrook — Bap. 1.19.1825. He and his brother, Robert, were passengers on the ill-fated S.S. Pulaski when it was lost off the N. C. Coast June 4, 1838. Robert was saved.

Some of the Ancestors of the Lawton Family of South Carolina, as taken from "Stemmata Chicheleana, or a Genealogical Account of Some of the Families derived from Thomas Chichele, of Higham-Ferrers in the County of Northampton; All whose descendants are held to be entitled to fellowships in All Souls College, Oxford; by virtue of their consanguinity to Arch-bishop Chichele, the Founder." Oxford, At the Clarendon Press MDCCLXV.

Robert Epting-Howard Peeples

In the late fourteenth century Thomas Chichele, thought to be a tailor at Higham-Ferrers, married Agnes Pyncheon, the daughter of William Pyncheon, gentleman (who had his Arms blazoned, Or, a Bend 3 Plates, with a Border counterchanged azure and sable,) and had by her four children: Henry Chichele, Arch-bishop of Canterbury, ob. 1443; Sir Robert Chichele, Lord Mayor of London in 1411 and 1421, ob. 1440, who married Agnes Apulderfield, the daughter of William Apulderfield, gentleman of the family of Apulderfield, long feted at Otterpley, in the parish of Challock in Kent; William Chichele, Sheriff of London in 1410, afterwards Alderman, ob. 1425, his will having been dated at Stanwell on May 9th of the same year. He married Beatrice Barret, daughter of William Barret, Esq.; and Dele, who married Tooke.

William Chichele and Beatrice Barret had four children: 1. William Chichele, Arch-deacon of Canterbury; 2. Mary Stone Biography aka
Mary Stone Grimball Lawton Fickling

Mary Stone was the daughter of Susannah Carrière and her first husband John Stone. She was born about 1720, probably on Johns Island, South Carolina and died in December 1803 in Black Swamp, South Carolina.

For many years, this important antecedent was erroneously thought to have been "Mary Sams" until family historians discovered the existence of the 3 x 5 inch plantation journal of Thomas Grimball (d. 1721), which is now part of the Cunningham and Lawton family papers, 1860s-1970s, MS 1444, in the Georgia Historical Society in Savannah, Georgia. These family records have been transcribed and annotated by the Rev. Dr. Robert E. H. Peebles in Transactions of the Huguenot Society of South Carolina 87 (1982): 64-69.

Mary Stone's father, John Stone, died prior to 23 March 1723 on Johns Island, South Carolina. Her mother, Susannah Carrière, was the daughter of Huguenot immigrant Jean Carrière of Normandy, France and his wife Elizabeth. Following the death of John Stone, Susannah Carrière was married a second time about 1740 to Thomas Winborn, a planter of Wadmalaw Island. Susannah Carrière Stone Winborn died 29 September 1780. An excellent accounting of the Carrière and other Huguenot families can be found in French Santee, A Huguenot Settlement in Colonial South Carolina, by Susan Baldwin Bates and Harriott Cheves Leland (Otter Bay Books, LLC, Baltimore, MD, 2015).

The subject of this sketch, Mary Stone, was first married to Paul Grimball on 29 November 1738. Paul Grimball (1703-1750) was a son of Thomas Grimball (d. 1721) and grandson of the English immigrant Paul Grimball (ca. 1640-ca.1695). The grandson Paul Grimball had been first married to Mary Barnwell, with whom he had eight children. Five children were born to the marriage of Mary Stone and Paul Grimball prior to his death in 1750, with the last and sixth child being born posthumously. Mary Stone Grimball then herself proceeded to make entries in the Grimball Plantation journal.

The surviving children of Mary Stone and Paul Grimball included Providence Grimball (1745-1764; m. Ephriam Mikell), John Grimball (1747-1780; m. Elizabeth Robert), and Anne Grimball (1749-p 1807; m. Peter Robert).

About 1750, Mary Stone Grimball was married a second time to William Lawton. Their only child was Joseph Lawton (1753-1815), progenitor of the Lawton family in South Carolina. On 18 March 1773, Joseph Lawton married Sarah Robert (1755-1839), a sister to Peter Robert who married Joseph Lawton's half-sister, Anne Grimball.

Following the death of William Lawton, Mary Stone Grimball Lawton was married a third time on 15 January 1759 to Samuel Fickling. Their only son, also named Samuel Fickling (1761-1766), died at the age of five and there were no surviving Fickling offspring.

While little is known of Samuel Fickling, Mary Stone's third marriage endured for about 20 years. She was known as "Mary Fickling" for the remainder of her life. She died in December 1803, leaving a considerable estate. An inventory can be found in the Lawton Family Papers, Manuscripts R.102, South Caroliniana Library, University of South Carolina.

According to family tradition, Mary Stone Grimball Lawton Fickling was not on particularly good terms with her daughter-in-law, Sarah Robert Lawton. One might imagine that this was an uncomfortable situation as both had relocated to the small community of Black Swamp, South Carolina, which was later to be re-named Robertville in honor of the many Robert family members who settled in this area.

It is further family tradition that this conflict resulted in Mary Stone Grimball Lawton Fickling arranging to have herself buried in between her son Joseph Lawton and his wife Sarah Robert Lawton. No small feat for a woman who died in 1803, her Lawton son following in 1815, and her daughter-in-law living on until 1839.

Estimable family historians such as Thomas O. Lawton, Jr. and Robert E. H. Peeples have unsuccessfully tried to unravel the mystery of the burial sequence in the Robertville Baptist Church Cemetery. According to the 19th century tombstone inscriptions, the order of the tombstones when facing the Robertville Baptist Church from right to left, is Sarah Robert Lawton, George Moss Lawton (a grandson), and then Joseph Lawton.

With no attempt to fully resolve the riddle of exactly where Mary Stone Grimball Lawton Fickling was buried, with gracious permission of the Robertville Baptist Church community and with the assistance of Peeples-Rhoden Funeral Home a marker was erected in 2015 by Grimball and Lawton descendants in honor of our intrepid ancestress.
